Colorado Construction – Leading National Construction Firm

www.colorado-group.com

Colorado Construction is an engineering, construction and finishes business based in Scotland, specialising in listed buildings, bespoke luxury homes, and the design & build of distilleries and visitor centres. Colorado Construction is currently building a unique vertical distillery on nine levels in Edinburgh. The Port of Leith Distillery will create a one-of-a-kind experience for visitors, showcasing the full whisky life cycle up close.

This award-winning firm has been recognised thanks to their dedicated approach to focusing on what their clients want and in delivering every job to a consistently high standard whether it be a contract for ongoing maintenance and support or a complex multi-million pound project to build a new distillery – such as those at Torabhaig, Inchdairnie or Glen Turner, a new visitor centre or bonded warehouses. Colorado Construction believes in working in an 'open book' manner and aims to provide demonstrable value throughout the construction and engineering process. Their success with this approach, where their people take an 'ownership' approach to every project, is demonstrated by the fact that 85% of Colorado Construction's work comes from repeat business.
